

To whom it may concern:

I do not favor any exceptions to the Indiana, "Do not call" registry. Banks with whom I do business can already call me if they have a pressing BUSINESS reason to do so. If I need a service from them, I am capable of seeking it out for myself. If you grant them an exception, the next thing you know they'll be selling their access to third parties and I'll be back where I started; receiving unsolicited, unwanted telephone calls at all hours of the day.

I wish there was something you could do about the mail.

Thank you for consideration of this comment.

Very truly yours,

Paul M. Foley II
